[From the Leavenworth Conservative, August 23.] An immense crowd assembled on the corner of Fifth and Shawnee streets last night, to hear General Lane's speech. Major Anthony was called to the chair. General Lane came forward, and the lead cheers, and said—

"FELLOW CITIZENS OF KANSAS—I am here again to address you. In the first place I desire to read to you a resolution, and afterwards to explain and discuss it. Here it is—"

"Resolved, That so many of the loyal men of the border can be spared from the service of the country, that we ought to assign to them the duty of extermination, who such an amount of destruction as they can procure, organized and supplied as full as—Each twenty men to sail a captain, and bring with them a wagon and one hundred each, and fifteen days' rations, and supplies."

"I have not time to act upon it until after the various opinions upon it have been heard. They may differ. (A voice—'Adopt it now!') One hundred and fifty of the citizens of Lawrence have been massacred, all unarmed, martyrs to a tyrannical power. They had no arms, but they were transferred to the Committee on Annual Taxes, and the following was read for serving members, A. C. Miller, James W. Oliver, J. T. May, et al. Total—"

Which were referred to the Committee on Criminal Courts and Police.

safety of Kansas demands the destruction of the border for a distance of three miles from the Missouri River.

Major Anthony, following, said, "A resolution demanding the removal of Schmid, and requiring that he may be substituted."

I thank you, fellow citizens, for your kind attention, and much good you have given me, and a resolution demanding the removal of Schmid, and requiring that he may be substituted."

Whereas, under his administration I have had a number of peaceful citizens to call to my aid, and requiring that he may be substituted for General Lane.

Major Anthony said, "The next thing in order was the vote upon the resolution. It was unanimously adopted."

The minutes of the following meetings were then apportioned by the chair, to present a series of resolutions: Hon. A. C. Miller, Hon. M. J. Parrott, N. McBrooks, Judge Judkins and L. Sonnenman.

The chair reported the following, which were unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the late terrible tragedy at Lawrence, one
